FINE MARK MADE BY FIELD ARTILLERY

Major T. M. Wortham is hearing the most glowing accounts of the work done by Lieutenants J. C. Pollard and John T. Wood, of Richmond, and Irvin L. Leaf, of Portsmouth, members of the First Battalion of Field Artillery, Virginia Volunteers, now in attendance at the Fort Hill, Okla., School of Fire. Since only thirty militia officers in the United States were allowed to go, and since the Virginia Battalion was drawn upon by the War Department for three—10 per cent. of the whole school—the artillerymen in Virginia have watched anxiously for news as to how their brother officers would acquit themselves. While all the range officers' reports have not been received here, private advices inform the headquarters in Richmond that each of these officers mentioned has led the school practice two or three times and also made a creditable showing when ever an opportunity was offered to do any firing. Major Wortham has received the range officers' report for the first nine days' practice with service ammunition. The Virginia officers, according to these reports, seven times, with the following results:

On May 22, Lieutenant Leaf, target a machine gun battery at 2,800 yards, adjusted his fire in eight minutes, taking eight for fire for effect; scored twenty-six hits, beating Captain McIntyre, of the regular army; Major Sargent and others, as previously published in this paper.

On May 27, Lieutenant Wood finished first, target machine gun battery, 2,200 yards, consuming fourteen minutes for bracketing, nine for fire for effect, extending fourteen and twelve rounds of shrapnel, respectively, and securing twenty-five effective hits and sixteen non-effective hits on material with one shot and two figures demolished, beating Captains Morrison, Bernard, of New Jersey; Eubank, of Georgia; Lieutenants Boyer, Perat and de Bremond, of New Mexico.

On May 29, Lieutenant James C. Pollard, target moving cavalry, 1,500 to 1,000 yards, using shell direct fire, two rounds only, secured seventeen hits, beating Captain Logan, of Texas, and others. Captain Moore, of the regular army, secured ten effective hits, indirect fire, on American battery, 2,300 yards, using ninety-one rounds of shrapnel for this purpose, the same day.

On May 31, Lieutenant Pollard finished third, target line of prone infantry, indirect fire, 2,700 yards, securing thirteen hits and four non-effective hits, with fourteen rounds of ammunition, beating Lieutenant Vogt, of Washington, D. C.; Swain, of Massachusetts; Major Vandercok, of Michigan, and others.

On June 3, Lieutenant Leaf finished fifth, target line of infantry, indirect fire, 3,500 yards, securing twenty effective hits and eighteen non-effective hits, with twenty-two rounds of shrapnel, beating Major Sargent, of Massachusetts; Lieutenant Snodgrass, of Pennsylvania; Benton and others.

On June 5, Lieutenant Wood, of Richmond, finished sixth, target American battery, 2,600 yards, securing six effective and twenty-five non-effective hits with twenty-four rounds of shrapnel, beating Captain Eubank, of Georgia, and Lieutenant Boyer.

On June 7, Lieutenant Pollard, with shell and indirect fire at a target, consisting of a United States battery, at 3,000 yards, securing eight effective hits and utterly destroying six figures erected by Captain Webb, of Utah; Paul, of New York; Lieutenants Swain, Benton, Perat and de Bremond.

The headquarters here is anxiously awaiting the other range report, which the Virginia officers will bring with them upon their return on June 18. The above results show the effect of the attendance upon the Fort Riley school for the last two years and the hard course of study these officers have taken advantage of under the auspices of battalion headquarters. It is particularly gratifying to know that at this time, when the Virginia militia can hit what it is shooting at when it goes to a national range.

News of Petersburg

Times-Dispatch Bureau,
5 Hollingsbrook Street,
(Telephone 1185).
Petersburg, Va., June 12.

The Southside Virginia Medical Association, after an afternoon and evening session and a reception given by the Petersburg Medical Faculty at the Country Club, adjourned last night. A number of valuable and practical papers on various subjects of interest to the profession were read at both sessions by members and visiting physicians and surgeons.

The Fourth Congressional District members of the association met last evening and elected Dr. Joel Crawford, of Yale, Sussex county, as counselor for the district, vice Dr. S. A. Hinton, deceased.

Very Light Vote.
In the election yesterday for Mayor and members of the two branches of the City Council about one-fifth of the qualified white vote was cast. The number of votes polled was 334 out of a qualified white list of 1,629. As the ticket nominated at the April primary had no opposition, the people generally did not feel sufficient interest to go to the polls. One vote in each ward would have been sufficient to elect.

The Democratic district primary for the nomination of a candidate for Congress will probably be held some time in August. The district committee, however, has not yet been called to name the date and fix assessments upon candidates.

Red Men Elect Officers.
Powhatan Tribe, No. 15, I. O. R. M., last night elected officers for the ensuing term as follows: Sachem, L. E. Huggins; Senior Sagamore, C. R. Butler, Jr.; Junior Sagamore, W. A. Priest; Prophet, David Alexander; Keeper of Wampum, W. T. Slaughter; Chief of Records, W. S. Abernathy; trustee for eighteen months, David Alexander.

New Church Contract.
Contract for the erection of a $10,000 church on Halifax Street for the congregation of St. Stephen's (Colored) Episcopal Church will be awarded the first of next week. From the sale of their property on Perry Street to the American Tobacco Company the congregation has more than enough money in hand to pay for the new site and new church.

Store Robbed.
The store of the Norfolk Tailoring Company, on South Scumore Street, was broken into last night and robbed of suits and suitings of the value of $120. Entrance was effected through the rear door. No clue has been obtained to the thief or thieves.

New Camp Organized.
District Manager R. E. Mayes, of this city, of the Woodmen of the World, has just returned from a trip through the district. In Brunswick county he organized a new camp, and wrote up an application for the organization of another in the same county. The order is rapidly growing in this section. Manager Mayes left for Richmond to-night to attend the meeting of the thirty-day day committee to complete the arrangements for the big State celebration in Richmond on July 16 and 17. Great numbers of Woodmen from all over the State will attend this celebration.

Annual Children's Day.
The annual celebration of Children's Day will be held at the First Baptist Church next Sunday, with an elaborate program of exercises. A special feature will be an exhibition of supplemental work done during the year.

A Day of Weddings.
To-day was a day of many weddings among Petersburgers. Besides those elsewhere mentioned the following were celebrated:

Moody—Wilcox.
George L. Moody, a well known merchant, and Miss Grace Wilcox, daughter of John T. Wilcox, were married this evening at 8 o'clock in the Jefferson Hotel, Richmond, by the Rev. George E. Booker, D. D. The couple were driven over in an automobile, accompanied by George Watson, who acted as best man.

Danforth—Faison.
This morning at 9 o'clock, at the home of the bride, near Waverly, Miss Gussie Beal Faison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob J. Faison, was married to William F. Danforth, of this city. The Rev. C. C. Jones, of Waverly, officiated.

Burfoot—Rose.
James Danney Burfoot and Miss Mattie Anderson Rose, both of this city, left on an early train this morning for Washington, where they were married this afternoon. They were accompanied by a sister of the bride, and by Mr. and Mrs. Taylor Burfoot, of Richmond. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. A. M. Rose, and the bridegroom is a prominent business man, connected with the British-American Company in this city.

An order has been entered in the District Court of the United States for the District of New Jersey in the case of "Robert H. Howe et al. vs. North American Copper Company," by which Charles Hall Davis, of Petersburg, Va., and Charles H. Hessel, of Cranford, N. J., were appointed receivers of the North American Copper Company.

The North American Copper Company was incorporated in New Jersey in July, 1902, with an authorized capital of $20,000,000. Its stock was subscribed for by various parties prominent in the financial world. The bill filed in this case charges that the parties so subscribing never paid either money or value for such stock; and further charges that certain properties thereafter acquired by the North American Copper Company were diverted from the company for the personal profit of the officers and directors, who were large stockholders.

Under the order, the receivers are directed to collect the debts and property due and belonging to the corporation in any and all States and jurisdictions, and it is understood that they will at once proceed to bring suits for the recovery of the $20,000,000 of stock subscribed above.

The receivers are also ordered to intervene in certain suits pending in the Federal court in Wyoming, in which the properties of the company are involved. A successor to the North American Copper Company, are involved.

The carrying out of this order at the court will necessitate the immediate filing of petitions of intervention by the receivers in the pending cases in Wyoming, as these cases are set for a final hearing on June 24, and probably will also necessitate the bringing of suits against the delinquent stockholders in the courts of Pennsylvania, Colorado and elsewhere.

The bill filed in the case in New Jersey, under which the receivers are appointed, charges a continuous plan and purpose of deception and fraud on the part of certain named conspirators, who, through a series of years, are alleged to have systematically diverted the assets of the corporation under their control, away from the corporation and into their own pockets.

The North American Copper Company, as stated, was a predecessor company of the Penn-Wyoming Copper Co., in which a great many prominent people in Petersburg, Richmond and elsewhere in Virginia, invested money. And the bill filed in the case above mentioned sets forth that the same parties who misappropriated the assets of the North American Copper Company likewise misappropriated the assets of the Penn-Wyoming Copper Company, and the purpose of this suit is to recover back from the parties charged to be guilty of such fraudulent misappropriation the assets and property so diverted, and to make the alleged conspirators pay out in full and in cash their stock subscriptions.

The principal parties against whom relief is sought in these proceedings are: Joseph Seep, of Oil City, Pa.; John J. Carter, of Titusville, Pa.; John S. Cary, of Denver, Col.; Charles P. Collins, of Pittsburgh; Willis George Emerson, of Los Angeles, Cal.; Jesse R. Leonard, of Pittsburgh; Eugene M. Cobb, of Chicago; Earl A. Norton, of Denver; Frank B. Draper, of New York.

Building Permit.
Building and repair permits were issued yesterday as follows:
C. H. Dunaway, to erect a detached two-story brick dwelling on the south side of Stuart Avenue, between Elm and Addison Streets, to cost $6,500.
W. H. Crawford, to erect a detached, two-story brick dwelling on the Main and Floyd Avenue, to cost $2,500.

E. W. Eubank, to erect a detached, two-story frame dwelling on the west side of Thirty-first Street, between O and P Streets, to cost $1,200.

C. Ridgeway Moore (Miller & Rhoads, lessees), to repair a two-story brick dwelling, 506 East Grace Street, to cost $900.

C. H. Crew, to repair a brick factory, 117 North Seventeenth Street, to cost $500.

P. L. Moore, to repair a brick dwelling, 316 North Twenty-third Street, to cost $650.

T. H. Landers and John E. Carr, to move and repair frame dwelling, 201 North Thirty-second Street, to cost $200.

DEGREES AWARDED TO 52 GRADUATES

Richmond College Turns Out Largest Class in Its History.

SENIORS MAKE $1,000 GIFT

Establish Scholarship to Help Needy Students of Athletic Promise.

In the presence of a gathering that took every available seat in the chapel, President Boatwright last night delivered diplomas to fifty-two graduates of Richmond College. Of this number, one received the degree of master of arts, three the bachelor of science degree, and thirteen the degree of bachelor of laws. Thirty-nine received diplomas declaring them bachelors of arts.

The awarding of the degrees officially closed the college year. It came as a climax of a series of exercises beginning at 10:30 o'clock yesterday morning with an academic procession of the graduates, faculty and trustees in formal cap and gown, to the college chapel, and an address by Director-Boatwright. The address was followed by the conferring of the honorary degree of doctor of divinity upon Rev. E. B. Jackson, of Warrenton, and Rev. J. Minor Wilbur, of Philadelphia. The morning exercises were opened with prayer by George Braxton Taylor, of Holling College.

Seniors Give $1,000.
Awarding college prizes and degrees formed the principal business of the evening session, which began at 8:30 o'clock. On behalf of the graduates, Gregory G. Garland, president of the senior class, presented to President Boatwright an envelope containing a certificate for $1,000, to be used in establishing a permanent scholarship for the benefit of promising athletes who need assistance in securing an education.

It was the hope of the class, he said, that the tuition scholarship thus founded be awarded only to needy students who have previously shown ability in athletic sports, with the end in view of effecting the strengthening of the various college teams.

President Boatwright announced the establishment of a new prize, to be awarded annually to the undergraduate doing the best piece of original investigation in Virginia or Southern history. The new prize is donated by J. Taylor Ellisen, president of the board of trustees.

A feature of the exercises last night was the presentation to Professor J. C. Metcalf of a silver loving cup by the senior English class. Frank Gaines, of the graduating class, made the speech of appreciation, remarking with much feeling to the inspiration which the class had imbibed under his teaching. Professor Metcalf accepted the token with a short speech of thanks.

Rev. E. B. Jackson, of Warrenton, presented the following medals:

Mr. Sigma Rho Society—Best debater's medal, J. B. Duval; best orator's medal, R. C. Duval; best reader's medal, R. C. Duval; joint writer's medal, G. V. McManaway.

Phi Kappa Society—Best declaimer's medal, E. N. Goodner; best debater's medal, J. A. George; best reader's medal, A. B. Carter; improvement in debate, C. R. Angell; joint orator's medal, Frank Gaines.

Clodius H. Willis was awarded the James D. Crump prize of $20 in gold for the highest grade in mathematics. The Tanner medal for the highest scholarship in Greek went to W. H. Davis, of North Carolina. Miss Phoebe Whitney Brugh and Miss Amy K. Kratz, both of this city, divided the Jennings $53 gold prize awarded for the highest grade in Spanish. The Brown scholarship cup for interclass baseball was awarded to the class of 1913.

Gifts Amounted to $52,000.
In his resume of the year's work President Boatwright stated that the total amount of gifts received by the college during the year just closed was $52,000. In this amount is included a number of donations to secure new scholarships. Of the $500,000 which the college undertook to raise to finance its removal and establishment at Westhampton, $205,000, he announced, has already been raised. Of the $195,000 still to be secured $60,000 is now on deposit in a New York bank and will become available as soon as friends of the college raise the $135,000 upon which this gift is contingent.

President Boatwright charged the class to make honorable use of the patent of nobility just conferred upon it by the diplomas, and asked each individual member, in whatever business or profession he may enter, to carry with him the ideals of his college and remain true to alma mater.

Possibilities in Panama Canal.
Mr. Barrett devoted the greater part of his address to a glowing portrayal of the inviting field for American enterprise and commerce which will be opened in South America by the Panama Canal. Southern ports and Southern cities, he thought, will be the greatest beneficiaries. But this new commerce, he warned, was not to be obtained by a passive policy of waiting. On this point he said:

"Unless the South awakens very soon to a full appreciation of the Pan-American field of trade, and of the opening of the Panama Canal it will be gravely disappointed at the beneficial results which it expects from that section of America, and from that new waterway between the Atlantic and the Pacific. The canal itself will be no magic influence to do away with the 'commerce and welfare of the South.'"

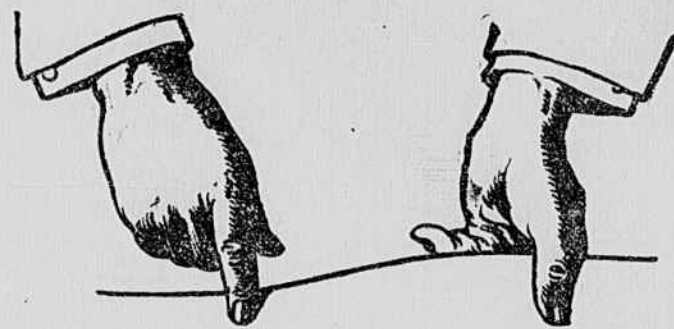

"The magic influence is nothing more or less than practical hard work in competition with the forces of other sections of the United States and with the principal countries of Europe and Asia. Practically every European nation, and Japan in Asia, are leaving no effort neglected to master the material, commercial, economic and intellectual conditions of all Latin America, in order that they may build up their commerce and influence in that section."

Land of Vast Resources.
Mr. Barrett described vividly the vast continent which will become available for American exploitation. Containing twenty separate nations, an area of more than 8,000,000 square miles, and more than 75,000,000 people, South America, he said, offers a broad field for American business men.

"We have followed too long," he said, "the policy of making wall flowers as it were of our South American sisters. It is time that America should wake up to the possibilities in that part of the world, as Europe and even the Orient have already done."

"The greatest boon that could possibly come to the South to-day would be to inaugurate in every State, county and hamlet what might be termed a 'get-ready-for-the-canal' movement. Chambers of commerce, civic and social societies, universities, colleges, public and private schools, should take up the study of the history, the commercial geography, the commerce and the peoples of the twenty ambitious is just the kind of a magazine you need for complete enjoyment of a June Sunday.

First there is a story of mental suggestion by J. W. Muller, called "Night's Open Door"—a story that leaves all beaten paths—a story that you will want to read a second time.

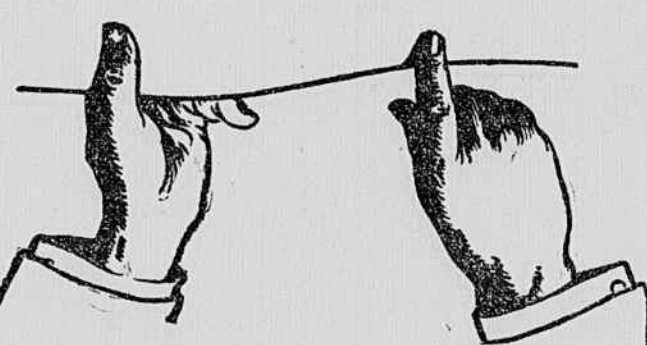

Then there is that chronicle of the most unusual adventure of the Unusual Adventure Club. This story is by Hugh Pendexter, and it is called "The Man With the Ace of Hearts." It's original.

Mystic, exciting, rapidly approaching the great climax, Mrs. C. N. Williamson's story, "If the Sea Could Tell," reaches a most interesting chapter in next Sunday's instalment. A complete synopsis will enable you to begin it, if you have not already done so.

Hands Off in Mexico.
In the course of a short digression on the field offered by the Central American republic and Cuba, Mr. Barrett took the opportunity to warn against American interference in the internal disputes of Mexico.

"For this country to take sides with any of the warring factions in Mexico," said Mr. Barrett, "would mean the loss of confidence of all the South American republics and irreparable injury to American interests in the southern continent. It would be equivalent, in the eyes of our sister republics, to an overt declaration on the part of the United States that it intends to regulate South American affairs to advance its peculiar interests, and would lead color to the flag charge that America looks hungrily upon the Latin countries and has in mind their ultimate acquisition. Let Mexico settle her internal troubles without our assistance."

Hurt in Runaway.
Thomas Morton, colored, twelve years old, of Providence Park, Henrico county, sustained a compound fracture of the right leg when a horse which he was driving ran away yesterday afternoon in North Second Street. The animal took fright on Hospital Street, shying at some strange object. Morton was thrown out when his wagon struck a passing vehicle and two tales of hay fell upon him. He was taken to the City Hospital, where an ambulance surgeon, and removed to the City Hospital.
